The two were nabbed by South African Police Services today, on the N1 close to Jean Avenue in Centurion. It's alleged that the pair were driving a white Polo VW sedan fitted with blue lights stopping unsuspecting motorists in full law enforcement uniform with reflector jackets, and were also in unlawful possession of AARTO documents belonging to the state. An amount totalling R890.00 was found from the two suspects.

The suspects will be linked to other cases of car and truck hijackings relating to the blue lights gang on freeways around Gauteng. Their vehicle is detained and booked at Asset Forfeiture Unit as it was used in the commission of a crime.

They are currently detained at SAPS Sunnyside holding cells and will appear on Thursday, 24 November 2022 at the Pretoria Magistrate Court for bail proceedings. The State is expected to oppose bail.
